The Rev. Joseph S. Wonderly

Rev. Joseph S. Wonderly, son of John and Catherine Rarey Wonderly, was born August 26, 1894, in Huntington, Indiana. After attending St. Mary's parochial school, he received his classical training at St. Joseph's College. In 1916, he entered Mt. St. Mary's Seminary at Cincinnati and was ordained June 10, 1922, in the Cathedral at Fort Wayne by Bishop Alerding. The sermon at his First Mass on June 11, at St. Mary's was given by Msgr. John F. Noll, later fifth Bishop of the Fort Wayne Diocese. After ordination, Father Wonderly entered Maryknoll Foreign Mission Seminary for one year. He then served as assistant at St. Charles, Peru, before taking a leave of absence in 1928 to work in the missions of the Amarillo (Texas) Diocese. He became pastor of White Deer. Transferred to Pampa in 1930, he built a school and rectory, and became Dean of the Amarillo deanery. After returning to the Fort Wayne Diocese in 1940, he was named pastor of Ss. Cyril and Methodius Church in North Judson. In January of 1943, he became pastor of Holy Name Church, Cedar Lake. Some of the improvements made during Father Wonderly's pastorate include a new convent (1953) and a new school (1956).

The Rev. George Kashmer

The Rev. George B. Kashmer was born in LaPorte, Indiana, on December 9, 1924. A graduate of St. Peter's Parish school, LaPorte High School and the University of Notre Dame, Father Kashmer received his Arts and Letters Degree in Political Science at the University of Notre Dame in June, 1949. Later he discontinued his graduate studies in Law and entered the seminary. In June, 1952, he completed his minor seminary studies at Our Lady of the Lake Seminary, Wawasee, Indiana, and then attended Mount St. Mary's Seminary, Norwood, Ohio, where he completed his studies in Philosophy. In 1954 he transferred to St. Meinrad Seminary, St. Meinrad, Indiana for his Theological studies.

During World War II, Father Kashmer served in the United States Army as a Sergeant in the Armored Field Artillery.

Father Kashmer was ordained in the Cathedral of the Holy Angels, May 31, 1958, by the Most Rev. Andrew G. Grutka, D. D.

Foreword

It is the purpose of this booklet to tell, as accurately and as briefly as possible, the history of the first one hundred years of Holy Name Church in what is now Cook, Indiana. Both accuracy and brevity prohibit our going into anything like a listing of the lay members of the Parish, past and present, all of whom have had an important part to play in this story. There are no adequate records available for this purpose, and if there were, nothing short of a library would do them justice. There have always been individuals who have stood out from the group because of the singular nature of their devotion and their work, whose names deserve to be remembered as well as those of the priests and sisters who served here. It would be thought most unfair if in recalling such names if any of them should be, no matter how unavoidably, omitted. Prudence therefore suggests that the scope of this work be limited to the events which mark the establishment and growth of the Parish, and the accomplishment of its peculiar purpose, and to the priests and other religious who under God were instrumental in directing those events and accomplishments.

Our gratitude is due to the Centennial Booklet Committee for gathering the material and doing the necessary research for the writing of this book. Our gratitude is also due to the Rev. Joseph Wonderly and Rev. George Kashmer for editing the booklet and without whose guidance and encouragement this booklet would not have been written.

Holy Name Church

History of Holy Name Church

The settlement of Hanover Centre existed as early as 1831 but it was not until several years later, in 1843, that enough Catholic families homesteaded there to have a priest stop occasionally to say Mass in one of the homes. The people belonged officially to St. John's (Prairie West), which was the first Catholic Church in what is now Lake County. It was there that the Sacraments of Baptism and Marriage were performed.

It was in the ten room red cedar log house of Matthias and Johanna Geisen that Mass was said infrequently. It was the same Matthias and Johanna who deeded a piece of their property to His Excellency Maurice de St. Palais, the Bishop of Vincennes, in 1852. By the time it was decided where to build, and the money subscribed to do so, the Diocese of Fort Wayne had been established with the Rt. Rev. John H. Luers, D. D., named as its first Bishop.

St. Matthias Church, a simple red cedar log structure was finally built in 1859, the third Catholic parish within Lake County. At first the Rev. Francis Xavier Nigh was able to say Mass only two Sundays a month as his 'rectory' was down in Pulaski, near Winamac. From all accounts he did not see his room in Pulaski very often, due to the necessity of being on the road most of the time. Realizing the hardship of traveling, for Bishop Luers covered the same ground as his priests and in the same manner, a room was found in Crown Point for the next pastor, Rev. M. P. Wehrle. His successor, the Rev. Henry Renson stayed in Klaasville. In the meantime a sacristy had been added to the church for the convenience of the priest.

A two story rectory was planned by the next pastor, the Rev. Simon Bartosz, who resided in Crown Point, but the actual building was not completed until 1867. In the meantime disaster struck the parish sometime in late 1866 when St. Matthias Church and all that it contained was destroyed by fire.

At the cost of $3,000, a frame single-spire church was built and completed in 1868. It bore a new name, that of St. Martin. The Rev. Frank Siegelack was appointed to the new church in 1869 and became the first resident pastor since he could live in the new rectory.

Frame Church of St. Martin's

The First Trustees of the new church were: Christopher Fetsch, Nicholas Geisen, Philip Kretz and William Schreiber. Matthias Geisen at this time added enough land to his original donation to provide for a cemetery (known as God's Acre) and other buildings, making a total of four and one-half acres. Mr. Geisen was a retired silversmith whose specialty had been casting bells. He now further proved his generosity to the church by having three bells cast in his hometown of Rappweiler, Germany. They were brought across the Atlantic from Hamburg, Germany, by sailing ship. When they arrived, Mr. Geisen found the bell-casters had inscribed his name 'Matthias Geisen von Rappweiler' on each bell.

After Father Siegelack, the Rev. F. X. Deimel, was appointed pastor. Besides fulfilling his pastoral duties Father Deimel added a 20' x 30' kitchen to the new rectory.

The next pastor, Rev. William Berg, was pastor of St. Martin's only as the missions of Lowell and Klaasville were raised to the status of parishes. Father Berg was able to buy an old schoolhouse to use as a summer school for the parish children. Mary Schreiber, a daughter of the parish, became housekeeper for Father Berg and served him in that capacity for the rest of her life. Father Berg was transferred to Schererville where he eventually became a Monsignor.

The Rev. Charles Steurer became pastor in June of 1881, and has been acknowledged as a strict disciplinarian by one still living who went to the Hanover Centre school. While the school was a township school, the teachers were Catholic and supplied by the parish. The school was presided over in a disciplinarian way by the pastor just as a parochial one would be.

It would seem that the next pastor is best remembered when it comes to personal anecdotes. This would seem proper as so many of those still living were impressionable children at the time. Also it must be remembered that the Rev. Matthias Zumbuelte was pastor of St. Martin's for the longest period of time, serving from October, 1889, until September, 1910. Miss Anna Doffin of Schererville was the Rev. Zumbuelte's housekeeper and janitress. She rang the bells, built the fires in addition to her regular duties, all for room, board and an additional $2.00 per week!

When Miss Doffin was unable to ring the bells the teacher did so. Often on summer evenings Rose Massoth (De Krauze) and the late Lena Geisen Rhein were assigned the ringing of the Angelus. They also often tolled the bells when someone died and as Mrs. De Krauze notes—"in the case of an old person we really had to watch our count." After tolling the age of the dead person all of the bells were rung three times.

Forty Hours was held in November when all the outside work on the farms was done. It was held at the time of the full moon so people could more easily see their way to the evening services. It was also at Forty Hours that the lighting system was put to use. Kerosene lamps were hung along the walls to be used only on such special occasions.

On the feast of Corpus Christi a great outdoor procession was held with everyone in the parish taking part. Mr. John Schillo and Mr. Andrew Bixenman were the Marshalls to see that the line of procession kept in order.

Has anyone wondered about how the priests were able to live and keep the parish bills paid? The collection was taken up on a dinner plate and the pews were AUCTIONED off once a year after the ten o'clock Mass. The front pews would bring the most despite the fact that the stove was in the rear of the church. The bidding took all day to complete and families waited anxiously for the father to return with word of where they were to kneel the next year. Mothers were never quite sure on that particular Sunday just when to have dinner ready! Father Zumbuelte also supplemented his table by keeping a vegetable garden and raising his own chickens. He made his own wine from a beautiful grape arbor which also provided shade for visiting parishioners.

Father Zumbuelte took the Monon milk train into Hammond on the morning of September 28, 1910. He made a deposit at the bank and decided to walk to St. Joseph's rectory to visit his friend Father Plaster. While stopping to talk to a friend, Father Zumbuelte suddenly collapsed. Dr. D. Weis, who had been born across from the Church and who had an office in Hammond, came to help but found his former pastor dead of a heart attack. Bishop Alerding pontificated at the Solemn Requiem Mass and buried Father in the parish cemetery.

A Father Moody took care of the parish for a few weeks until Father Ignatius Rauh, C. PP. S. came to act as temporary pastor for about a year. Father Rauh is remembered most for the very large First Communion Class he prepared in accordance with the new decree then just given by Pope St. Pius X, in regard to permitting and encouraging children of a much younger age than heretofore, to receive.

First communicants with Rev. Rauh

The next pastor, the Rev. Herman Juraschek, came to Hanover Centre (Cook), on July 7, 1911. He immediately set to work landscaping the grounds and planning a building program which would best make use of the natural beauty of the grounds. St. Martin's parishioners certainly had received their money's worth from the little white frame church as it had given them forty-four years of service. Now Father Juraschek had plans drawn up for a brick, twin-spired church. The church property at this time was free from debt. Hilary Roettgen had willed the sum of $2,000 to be used in the building of a new church. Added to it was a like sum willed by Father Zumbuelte for the same purpose. The need for a new church and school was imperative as the parish now numbered about eighty families.

Brick St. Martin's

St. Martin's High Altar

The church and school buildings were dedicated on September 7, 1913, by His Excellency, Bishop Alerding.

St. Anthony's parish in Klaasville was dissolved in 1912, and most of the families became parishioners of the St. Martin Church.

The last tangible work done by Father Juraschek was the Crucifixion group in the cemetery. His health failing, Father left the parish in the autumn of 1922. He fought a losing battle, dying in Chicago, August 27, 1925. He was buried in the parish cemetery after Bishop Noll pontificated at a solemn Requiem Mass.

Old School

Father Juraschek was evidently a well-educated man. As we have seen he provided for the spiritual and educational needs of his people, and was well repaid by having the first vocations of the parish develop during his pastorate. Father loved and understood music, also. He reformed the choir and directed it and he had a band sponsored by the Foresters. It was in great demand throughout the area.

Band

The band leader was Otto Braun and band members were: Henry Sauer, John Sauer, Peter Sauer, Michael Sauer, Gilbert Lauerman, Victor Lauerman, John Klein, James Klein, Matt Klein, Otto Bixenman, Arnold Bixenman, Harry Bixenman, Arnold Maxwell, Sigmund Hauser, Joe Saberniak, Martin Saberniak, Michael Saberniak, Peter Schreiber, Joe Stommel, Frank Echterling, Ed Echterling, Albert Saberniak, Ed Stark, Ben Hepp, John Schmidt, Otto Kurrack, Ed Austgen, Albert Rhein, Ed Hero, Andrew Pillack, Hugo Echterling, Michael Miller.

These same green band uniforms were used at St. Joseph's College, Collegeville, Indiana for a number of years after this band was dissolved.

From the autumn of 1922 until April, 1923, the parish was served by a Reverend L. L. Mouthuy. On April 4, 1923, the Rev. Gustave Hottenroth came to St. Martin's. He followed the plans of Father Juraschek, reducing the debt, and installing electricity throughout the parish plant when that 'modern miracle' was made available to the community. Father Hottenroth had the church frescoed

In its seventy-first year of existance, St. Martin's suffered disaster for the third time because of fire. On the night of October 12, 1930, a fire started in the sacristy and before it had finished burning it had ruined the whole beautiful building from sacristy to rose window, to bell towers. Only the small statue of the Blessed Mother standing between the bell towers was unmarked and unscorched. Father Hottenroth, with only a towel to protect his face had been able to save the Blessed Sacrament and the vestments. His hands were badly burned in so doing.

Side view of church destroyed by fire

Father Hottenroth was replaced in July, 1931, by the Rev. Charles W. Marr as pastor of the parish. Mass was held in the hall above the school until a basement church was built. Mass was first celebrated in the Basement Church in 1932.

Basement Church

It was with much backbreaking labor and personal solicitation of friends, especially his non-Catholic admirers and summer visitors at Cedar Lake, that Father Marr and his parishioners were finally able to build a beautiful superstructure on top of the basement church. This church was named in honor of the Holy Name and dedicated on Thanksgiving Day, 1940, by Bishop Noll.

Father Marr was a dedicated man. Holy Name Church was one of the several he was sent to rebuild. An orphan, whose Methodist foster parents gave him a complete Catholic education, Father Marr many times said that he "would never rust out but would bust out" and so he did. He was stricken with pneumonia and died three days later despite the devoted nursing by Sister M. Sidora and Miss Marcella Sheehan, Father's housekeeper. Father died in November, 1942, and is buried in the parish cemetery.

The Rev. Stephan, O. F. M. cared for the parish until Father Joseph Wonderly was appointed in January of 1943. Because of the postwar residential building in and near Cook, and because of Cedar Lake changing from a resort to a permanent town, a new convent and a new school have been built under the supervision of Father Wonderly. Our parish continues to expand, thus spreading the Word of God.

THE RECTORY

The compiling of the history of the parish previous to the year 1902, has been done with the wonderful help and memories of members of original parish families and the books, records, pictures and anecdotes they have permitted us to use. The reason this is so appreciated is that the rectory, built by the Rev. Simon Bartosz in 1867, and improved upon by Father F. X. Deimel, was struck by lightning during the night of July 9, 1902. The results of the fire were that all of the church records as well as the rectory was destroyed.

The present rectory was built under the direction of Nicholas Mager. It had the "modern conveniences" of the period and was ready for occupancy by Father Zumbuelte in November of 1902. The building has undergone some necessary alterations since then.

THE CONVENT

During Father Berg's tenure the public school building was bought, moved to the church grounds and used as a summer school. Later it was remodeled into a lay teacher's home. In 1903 it was refurnished and used as the first convent. It stood on the site presently occupied by the "old school" and was moved from there by "Case" steam engine in 1912 to the farm now owned by Henry Kretz, there it was incorporated into the home. This building, according to the records, was built in 1857 and the timbers are still being used.

When St. Martin's frame church was dismantled, the wood was used to build a convent for the nuns. This became so small and cramped that the parish decided to build a modern two story brick convent, complete with chapel and other facilities. It was finished, dedicated and occupied in 1952. The dear nuns now not only have privacy but room to spread their wings!

The grotto located in front of the rectory, on church property, was built in about the year 1944 as a memorial to John Michael and Mary Catherine Weishaar. It is dedicated to the Blessed Virgin Mary.

New School

SCHOOLS

Nowhere is the growth of the parish more apparent than in the development of its schools, from a one room structure of red cedar logs—to the modern one storied brick building, that was dedicated in 1956.

About 1880 a school was purchased from Hanover Township by Father Berg, and was moved to the church grounds from its location near the New York Central Railroad. It was first used as a summer school for the study of Christian Doctrine and the German Language. Its pupils came from Hanover Centre, Armour, Roettgen, Farmdale and Cedar Lake. It was taught by lay teachers.

The parish bought a second school from Hanover Township. This two room frame building was moved from the N. Y. C. right of way to the church property about 1903 and the original school was used as a home for lay teachers, then in 1905 as a convent for the Poor Sisters of St. Francis of Perpetual Adoration.

During the pastorate of Father Juraschek, in 1913, a red brick school was built for St. Martin's. Nine grades were taught in three classrooms, later the upstairs hall and stage were used as classrooms, also.

The present Holy Name School is located across the road west from the parish grounds on what was once the Schutz homestead. There are seven rooms used for eight classes, a Superior's room and anteroom, a music room, a regulation gymnasium with a stage, locker rooms and a small kitchen. The lavatories can be reached from either side of the building.

Since 1932, classes have been taught by nuns from the Order of School Sisters of St. Francis. In 1905 the total enrollment was forty-three. What a comparison to the enrollment of 312 in this Centennial Year!

TEACHERS

A Mr. Blaiser (Blazier) is known to have been the teacher in 1886. His home was furnished by the parish. Professor Schmidt next taught the Hanover Centre school. He is remembered more for his love of music than for his teaching, as he played the pump organ and formed a dance band. Mr. Joseph Kolb of Crown Point also taught, though he later moved to Hammond, Ind. and became a merchant. Mr. Stephan Mayer, a future township trustee and merchant in the community was the next teacher. Nicholas Teno taught in the Hanover Centre school and married a girl from the parish, Mary Einsele. He is buried in the parish cemetery. Miss Fannie Schaible, who later married Michael Lauerman, is also remembered as a teacher. John Stommel, one of the lay teachers, is well remembered, even today. He was church organist and had a daughter, Agnes, who entered the convent. After the school was moved to the church grounds, a Miss Madelin Laible of Dyer, Ind. taught the children. She resided in the present Kenning-Theil home, and had a hat shop there.

Sister M. Casimira O. S. F. was the first Principal-Superior of the Franciscan nuns (The Poor Sisters of St. Francis of Perpetual Adoration) who came to St. Martin's in 1905. There were nine grades, and she and one other nun taught the 43 pupils enrolled in the school. The names of these sisters who served throughout the years should recall many memories. Sister M Henrietta is the sole survivor of these former Superiors.

Did You Know That ?

Matthias Geisen dug and bricked-in his own grave.

Some of the very first families to settle in the parish besides the Geisens were: Leopold Bixenman, Anton Brickman, Patrick Buckley, John Driscoll, Philip Eberle, Michael Einsele, George Emmerling, Christopher Fetsch, Peter Gard, Matthias Gerold, Peter Heiser, Leonard Hoeltzle (Hiltzley) Michael Hoffman, P. J. Horner, John J. Klein, Peter Klein, John Kretz, Philip Kretz, Lang, Matthias Lauerman, Jacob Leinen, Jerry Mahoney, Adam Massoth, Franklyn Ofenloch, John Rhein, John Roettgen, Russell, John Scherer, John Schillo, Michael Schreiber, Frank Schutz.

Weddings were always on Tuesdays and Valentine Kretz wore out two accordians during the years he provided music for the wedding parties, and who could forget Carl Kenning and his concertino?

Father Zumbuelte would take a weekly stroll to the general store and post office of Matt Lauerman (now the Murdock residence) at Armour, the north-west section of Cedar Lake.

It would seem that "Napoleon (Nappie)", the russet cocker spaniel friend of Father Wonderly had someone set a precedent for him. Father Zumbuelte had a blonde short-haired dog "Princie" who howled when the bells were rung for Consecration.

In the early days the Altar and Rosary Society decorated the Blessed Virgin's May altar with artificial flowers made from tissue paper, as garden flowers were not plentiful as now.

Public school ended in April but Catholic School continued through May and June during which time the children received instructions in religion and the German language.

The former St. Anthony church building is on the Walter Huseman property.

Monsignor Hildebrandt was born in the home now owned by Joseph O'Dea, Sr.

The main altar of Holy Name was given by Father Marr, the side altars by Ida Bixenman and the Communion Rail by Alfred Schmal and John Schreiber.

The Communion Rail for the 1912 St. Martin's Church was given by the Lady Foresters.

The Shrine north of Cook, sponsored by the Legion of Mary, Hammond Curia, was dedicated to Our Lady of the Highways. The marble statue was imported from Italy by Frank Wachter and erected on land donated by him.
